LINCOLN COUNTY VOLUNTEER FAIR

Saturday, March 25th 2017

Shilo Inn, Newport

The 2017 Lincoln County Volunteer Fair invites teens, adults and businesses to the Shilo Inn, located at 536 SW Elizabeth, Newport, OR on Saturday, March 25, 2017 from 10:00-2:00 PM. The Shilo Inn will be providing a concession stand for everyone's convenience. Non-Profits from all over Lincoln County will be available to visit with and learn about their organizations and volunteer opportunities. The fair will have non-profits from Yachats to Lincoln City and will cover East County as well.

This free event is co-sponsored by the Shilo Inn, Lincoln County, and Representatives from local Lincoln County non-profit organizations. Non-Profits will be available to share their missions and programs and describe volunteer opportunities. Community Organizations span a range of work and issue areas, such as environmental conservation, homelessness, animal rights, elderly and disabilities, poverty, youth education and many more.

Many of these non-profit organizations depend on local volunteers. Come be a part of building a great community! Volunteers are the glue that hold many non-profits together. Volunteering has many benefits. It can increase job skills, provide networking opportunities, create new friendships and can provide a sense of purpose and accomplishment. Volunteering can transform your own life, as well as others, in so many positive ways.

This is an excellent opportunity for businesses and individual prospective volunteers to visit and learn about the great work and commitment of our Lincoln County non-profit organizations.
