Consumer Price Index, West Region — June 2022

Area prices were up 1.2 percent over the past month, up 8.8 percent from a year ago

Prices in the West Region, as measured by the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U), advanced 1.2 percent in June, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today. (See table A.) The June increase was influenced by higher prices for gasoline. (Data in this report are not seasonally adjusted. Accordingly, month-to-month changes may reflect seasonal influences.)

Over the last 12 months, the CPI-U increased 8.8 percent. (See chart 1 and table A.) Food prices jumped 10.6 percent. Energy prices jumped 36.6 percent, largely the result of an increase in the price of gasoline. The index for all items less food and energy advanced 6.2 percent over the year. (See table 1.)

View Chart DataFood

Food prices advanced 1.4 percent for the month of June. (See table 1.) Prices for food at home advanced 1.4 percent with increases in all six food categories. Prices for food away from home also rose 1.4 percent for the same period.

Over the year, food prices increased 10.6 percent. Food at home jumped 12.8 percent for the year. All food subcategories rose by double-digits percentages since a year ago. Overall, prices for food away from home advanced 7.6 percent.

Energy

The energy index increased 5.4 percent over the month. The increase was mainly due to higher prices for gasoline (7.9 percent). Prices for natural gas service increased 5.6 percent, but prices for electricity decreased 0.5 percent for the same period.

Energy prices jumped 36.6 percent over the year, largely due to higher prices for gasoline (52.0 percent). Prices paid for natural gas service jumped 27.8 percent, and prices for electricity rose 10.5 percent during the past year.

All items less food and energy

The index for all items less food and energy increased 0.8 percent in June. Higher prices for new and used motor vehicles (1.9 percent) and shelter (0.7 percent) were partially offset by lower prices for medical care services (-0.1 percent).

Over the year, the index for all items less food and energy advanced 6.2 percent. Components contributing to the increase included household furnishings and operations (10.3 percent) and shelter (6.2 percent).

The July 2022 Consumer Price Index for the West Region is scheduled to be released on August 10, 2022.

Technical Note

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) is a measure of the average change in prices over time in a fixed market basket of goods and services. The Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes CPIs for two population groups: (1) a CPI for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U) which covers approximately 93 percent of the total U.S. population and (2) a CPI for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) which covers approximately 29 percent of the total U.S. population. The CPI-U includes, in addition to wage earners and clerical workers, groups such as professional, managerial, and technical workers, the self-employed, short-term workers, the unemployed, and retirees and others not in the labor force.

The CPI is based on prices of food, clothing, shelter, and fuels, transportation fares, charges for doctors' and dentists' services, drugs, and the other goods and services that people buy for day-to-day living. Each month, prices are collected in 75 urban areas across the country from about 6,000 housing units and approximately 22,000 retail establishments—department stores, supermarkets, hospitals, filling stations, and other types of stores and service establishments. All taxes directly associated with the purchase and use of items are included in the index.

The index measures price changes from a designated reference date; for most of the CPI-U the reference base is 1982-84 equals 100. An increase of 7 percent from the reference base, for example, is shown as 107.000. Alternatively, that relationship can also be expressed as the price of a base period market basket of goods and services rising from $100 to $107. For further details see the CPI home page on the Internet at www.bls.gov/cpi and the CPI section of the BLS Handbook of Methods available on the internet at www.bls.gov/opub/hom/cpi/.

In calculating the index, price changes for the various items in each location are averaged together with weights that represent their importance in the spending of the appropriate population group. Local data are then combined to obtain a U.S. city average. Because the sample size of a local area is smaller, the local area index is subject to substantially more sampling and other measurement error than the national index. In addition, local indexes are not adjusted for seasonal influences. As a result, local area indexes show greater volatility than the national index, although their long-term trends are quite similar. NOTE: Area indexes do not measure differences in the level of prices between cities; they only measure the average change in prices for each area since the base period.

The West Region covered in this release is comprised of the following thirteen states: Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.
